Wednesday was the Pine Cone's fortieth birthday. The Pine Cone is actually 39 years old as occidental people count their age, but newspapers, like the Chinese, have their first birthday the day they are born, Volume 1, No. 1. So throughout this year the Pine Cone wears in its masthead and date lines, Volume 40 and whatever number the calendar week happens to be, and the paper is considered 40 years old. This has always been confusing to me but it appears to be crystal clear to everybody else.

William Overstreet's famous "we are here to stay" editorial in the February 3, 1915, Volume 1, No. 1 Pine Cone has been quoted often enough so that all of you must know it well. There was a second editorial in the same issue that is not so familiar. Bill wrote:

"You owe it to yourself no less than to your village to patronize the home merchant."

"The local store-keeper has a perfect right to expect you to expend your money in his place of business."

"He lives here, pays taxes, contributes generously to various funds both for charity and art, and takes a vast interest in the material progress of the community."

"Spend your money at home—where it will do most good."

We wish Street Commissioner Francis Whitaker would get the street department out of the trees. It's been going on for weeks and we wonder how many of the dead limbs they are cutting out of the city pines are really dead. This time of year most pines look a little frowzy with brown needles and cones, but that doesn't mean that the great limbs are dead.

Anyway, most of us prefer a few dead limbs in our pines to the effect the street department is achieving, pruning some of our trees so drastically that the P. G. and E. men will come along pretty soon and hang wires on them, thinking that here are some poles they have overlooked.

Miss Elizabeth Niles doesn't like to open the door to the cubbyhole under the fern box beside the iron railing on the stairway going up to the mezzanine at the library. When she does, a whole collection of things alitters out onto the floor, among them: two children's jackets, one wind repellent, one wool; two children's sweaters, a woman's hand-knit sweater, a coin purse with 82 cents in it, assorted lunch boxes, glasses cases and odd gloves, a new box of note paper, a woman's large leather handbag containing a pair of gloves, a package of cigarettes, and a bottle of perfume; an umbrella, an inlaid maracas, and a yellow celluloid duck.

The cubbyhole is the library's lost and found department, and it can hold no more. So if any of these things belong to you, Miss Niles says will you please come and get them.

Daisy Wants A Loyalty Parade, And Due Credit For Our Modern Youth

By DAISY BOSTICK

This fuss about loyalty oaths and self-incrimination has me flabbergasted. I offer this simple solution. Why not have a day set aside for the people to go voluntarily and demand that they be given a loyalty test. A giant parade led by a brass band would be effective, the people following en masse to insist on taking the oaths and intoning the ritual: "I have not nor ever have been, etc." Such a procedure would be positive, not negative. Instead of "I am not a Communist," how would "I am a loyal American" do? And for good measure we might add: "I believe in our government and the principles for which it stands and those who object to it should be loaded on ships and sent to their imagined Utopia."

Just think of that glorious "loyalty day." It might go down into history along with the Boston Tea Party and have as much significance as the signing of the Declaration. No real commie would dare to join in such a parade. If he backed out of taking the oath and invoked the Fifth Amendment there would be enough mad Yankees in that gathering to see that he would be speechless for some time. And the F.B.I. and the Senator from Wisconsin could easily spot them.

I am sort of peeved because I have never been investigated and it would be the proudest day of my life if I could stand up and proclaim my loyalty to all who might be listening. I could readily swear that I am old-fashioned enough to shed tears when I see the Stars and Stripes, that I believe in the republican form of government, in the capitalist system and that I think the acquisition of money is a worthy thing.

This constant reference to "juvenile delinquency" in the newspapers has me boiling, and while we're getting things settled let's look at this problem and try to solve it. I was a juvenile once and (Continued on Page Twelve)

Josselyn, Willox, Bates Named To Planning Board

Carmel City Council, at Wednesday night's meeting, approved Mayor Horace Lyon's appointment of Architect George Willox and Artist Clarence (Clancy) Bates, and re-appointment of Mrs. Talbert Josselyn to the planning commission.

Willox and Bates replace Lewis Snyder and John Ruster. Snyder's term had expired and he did not wish to serve again because of ill health. Ruster resigned last month. Mrs. Josselyn's term had expired.

Lester Rowntree Back With Story Of Animal Xmas Tree

Lester Rowntree, botanist and writer, is back in Carmel after a winter "here and there" in the desert. She brings report of January rains which means there will be a spring showing of desert wildflowers, which had been despaired of when the dry spell had extended into December.

Mrs. Rowntree celebrated Christmas by setting up a Christmas tree out of doors for the little animals she had tamed, decorating it with corn on the cob (frozen and thawed) hard boiled eggs, bits of straw, pop corn, nuts, cheese and apples. Over 60 creatures came to enjoy her hospitality. Among them were, cotton tails, a road runner, desert sparrows in number, antelope chipmunks, and quail. Some shy ones came at night but as there was no guest book to sign, she doesn't know who they were.

Writing occupied much of her time.

After establishing a reputation in the field of botanical and horticultural writing—Hardy Californians, McMillan, 1936; Flowering Shrubs of California, Stanford Press, 1939; the section on flowers in Roderick Paettie's The Sierra Nevada, 1947, and many magazine articles—Mrs. Rowntree has turned to children's books, bringing out Ronnie Viking, 1952, and Ronnie and Don, Viking, 1953.

Holdover members are Mrs. Hurd Comstock, Donald Craig, Mrs. Gladys Kipinger, Chester Lewis, and Dr. Jesse F. Williams.

Mrs. Josselyn, wife of the writer whose sport stories have delighted readers of Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, and many other "slicks" for two decades, has lived in Carmel for 30 years, served on the planning commission since its inception, and has been its chairman for the past year. She believes that to qualify for membership on the commission one should "love every tree and stone in Carmel." Anyone who has watched her work on the commission will agree that she fills the requirement.

Donald Craig thanked the mayor, saying that the planning commission had been unanimous in wanting Mrs. Josselyn to continue. She was appointed to the four-year term. Craig added that the entire appointment slate was "an excellent job", and that Bates would serve as a valuable tie-in with the art association.

Bates is a director of the Carmel Art Association. A native Oregonian, he came here six years ago after release from the army. He served in the South Pacific in the air force, and though he had had a sculptor's studio in San Francisco prior to his military service, when he settled with his wife in Carmel, he turned to painting. His one-man show will be hung in the gallery February 15. He was appointed for the two remaining (Continued on Page Four)

Council Weathers 3 Squalls, Others Coming Feb. 17th

There were three squalls at the city council meeting Wednesday night, with storm warning of others to come on February 17.

Councilman Francis Whitaker wanted to cut down a pine tree on Casanova Street between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia. He said it was dead or almost so, and if it were taken out now a new one could be planted. He didn't think the council should hold onto old trees "to the detriment of the planting program." Councilwoman Geraldine Smith sided with him.

Carmel Mothers Net $1094 For Polio Fund

Thirty Carmel mothers not only managed to collect the unforeseen sum of $1,094 in their two-hour porch-to-porch march on polio Tuesday night, but they had a wonderful time doing it.

"It was so amazingly successful that we were all flabbergasted," said Mrs. Fred Devendorf, president of the Carmel P.T.A. which, along with the Junipero Serra Mothers' Club, organized the first mothers' march on polio to take place here. A warm, balmy evening made the collecting job more pleasant for the volunteers, which included whole families as well as mothers. In many cases, Mrs. Devendorf admitted, residents forgot about the campaign and left their porch lights on just on general principles, but when confronted by a collector invariably responded with good spirit and a generous contribution.

Carmel's total contribution to the current March of Dimes campaign is almost twice that of last year, Mrs. Devendorf reported. And the amount collected by the 30 mothers here on Tuesday night formed a substantial hunk of the $4500 total collected by nearly 400 volunteers on the Peninsula during the one-night march.

Council Learns Of Peninsula-Wide Clean-up Plan

Councilwoman Gerry Smith asked the council Wednesday night for city co-operation in Peninsula-wide clean-up drive to get under way April 1.

She reported attending a meeting in Monterey Wednesday noon, called by Supervisor Andrew Jacobsen, and attended by council representatives from the three cities, state highway department personnel, and General McClure from Fort Ord.

Plan is to supply gasoline service stations with paper bags to distribute to their patrons with the suggestion that they place their trash in the bags instead of scattering it along the roads. Service stations are to be provided with trash receivers, and attendants are to ask if the motorists wish to dispose of any papers or trash they may have in their cars. Two oil companies have agreed. The county will furnish the bags and trash cans and provide for removal of trash from service station receptacles outside the city limits. Question, would the three cities finance trash removal from the service stations within their boundaries?

Council liked the idea and said they would act on it at the February 17 meeting.

Councilman Donald Craig thought the tree should be left in until others that the city could plant in its neighborhood could achieve some growth. He estimated that there was at least a year and a half of life left in the tree, perhaps five years. And there were no other city-owned trees in the block.

Whitaker disagreed as to the life expectancy of the pine and asked Street Superintendent William Askew to back him up. Askew said it was hard to tell how long a sick tree would live, and Chief of Police Clyde Klummann chimed in, "Just like people."

Craig observed that he didn't think much of a policy that if carried out to its ultimate could lead to "chopping down every tree in Carmel so we can get new ones started."

Whitaker's skier's tan turned red, everybody braced for the crash, and the unpredictable Francis earned a A for himself in deportment. He said, "I move we postpone the decision."

Then Ernest Bixler wanted to construct a driveway into his property, which is below street grade, at Seventh and Forest Avenue. He wanted to start the driveway in the middle of Seventh Street, 25 feet from his property line, so as to have an easy slope. Seventh is a 50 foot right of way and the edge of the pavement is in the middle of it, where Bixler wanted to start his driveway. But what if, in the future, the city should want to expand Seventh Street to the full width of its right of way? Whitaker asked. Bixler said the possibility of widening Seventh at that point, at the sacrifice of trees, was exceedingly unlikely. Whitaker thought Bixler should start his driveway 10 feet from his property line and so moved. The council voted on the 10-foot proposition, (Continued on Page Twelve)

Chartered Bus For Republican Rally

A chartered bus will be available for those planning to attend the Republican Rally in San Mateo this Wednesday evening. The bus leaves from Carmel High School at 5:00 o'clock, and will arrive in San Mateo in ample time for passengers to obtain good seats for the 8:00 o'clock rally. The rally, starring Senator Joe McCarthy, will be held in the San Mateo Fiesta Hall. It is suggested that those planning to attend take along box suppers.

Round trip fare for the bus will be around $3.00. Arrangements may be made through the transportation chairman, Mrs. Thomas K. Perry, 7-6977.

PADRES TREK TO GONZALES

With a slim chance for basketball titles in both the lightweight and varsity divisions, the Carmel High cage squads invade the Gonzales High cracker-box gym for a double-header league affair with the valley Spartans. The red and gray hoopsters have been known to suffer acute claustrophobia when performing on the tiny Spartan court and have had some of their best teams suffer rude upsets when visiting the Spartan campus. In the first round meeting this season, Carmel split with the valley lads, dropping the lightweight tussle and winning the varsity fray. Both squads are about equal in the height department so that the important rebound element doesn't favor either squad. However, the Carmel varsity has been a little tighter on the defense to hold a slight edge in that department. Last week, the Spartans ran into a stumbling block at Hollister where the Haybalers hung a 28-26 loss on the black and orange gang. This was the initial win for Hollister this season and was a welcome relief from a long string of bitter losses. While the Gonzales heavies were being rubbed by Hollister, the Padres were dumping King City, 45 to 39.

Carmel's lightweight team has a revenge motive at Gonzales tonight, losing a close one to the Spartan babes in the first outing. Since being jolted by Gonzales, the little Padres have measured Gilroy and Pacific Grove to prove they have a royal chance to upset the host team tonight. A win over Gonzales and a Gilroy win over King City would put the Padrecitos right near the top of the heap again.

Captain George Hunter will lead George Wightman, Dick Jennings, David Castagna, and John Farrell into varsity action tonight, while the lightweights will do business with Captain Gary Nielsen, Randy Houghtelling, Mervyn Sutton, Jimmy Konrad and Mike Mosolf.

PADRES-TOREADORES CLASH AT MONTEREY TOMORROW

First Saturday night action of the current season faces the ambitious Carmel High basketball squads tomorrow night when the underdog Padres move over the hill for action against the rugged Monterey High squads. The big, fast, and aggressive Monterey teams have been running wild in recent outings and will be going all out for a pair of convincing wins over the stubborn little Padres. Monterey's varsity recently drubbed Watsonville in an A division league tilt, and last Friday night, handed the Santa Cruz five a good going over at the Surf City auditorium. Equipped with blazing speed, the Toreadores run from the opening whistle and don't give the opponents time to catch their breath. The swift front line of McKinney, Cases, and Canepa puts terrific pressure on the enemy ball-handlers and move with jet-like speed when the ball falls into Monterey hands.

Action starts at 7 o'clock tomorrow night with the lightweight teams of the two schools answering the whistle for preliminary festivities.

CARMEL VARSITY DOES; LIGHTWEIGHTS DON'T

Running true to form and early season performance, the Carmel High varsity basketball team defeated King City, 45 to 39, and the Carmel High lightweight team was dumped by the KC Ponies, 41 to 31, last Friday night at the Padre gym. The same treatment was dished out by the same teams the last time the Mustangs and Padres met at King City so the results were about as expected.

The lightweight fuss was a one-man show featuring a midget King City guard, Padilla, who took complete charge of the offense and defense for the visitors and showed an unbelieving Carmel audience the most accurate shooting of the season to tank 23 points for the Ponies. This little court magician hit from any spot on the floor and used all the shots in the book to rack up the hard-trying Padrecitos. The little Padres fought back against the thorns stuck in them by Padilla, but couldn't get within hailing distance of the flying Pony leader. Mike Mosolf meshed 9 points to lead the Carmel scorers as Jon Zellhoefer with 8 and Gary Nielsen with 7 helped to light up the Carmel side of the scoreboard.

Carmel's varsity stayed just far enough in front of the Mustangs to make a close game of it all the way and were never more than three points in front until the closing minute when they finished on the long end of a 45-39 count. Evenly-balanced scoring thrusts by Don Leidig, 11, George Wightman, 10, and George Hunter, 10, added up to a good team effort on the part of the Padre heavyweights. John Farrell, 5, and Dick Jennings, 5, played steady floor games with Farrell leading the rebound department and Jennings doing yeoman work on the defense.

With the victory over King City, the Padre varsity retains a hold on second place in the B division flag chase, while the lightweight loss pushes the Padrecitos out of first place into a three-way tie for second.

THROUGH THE HOOP

See where the amazing Bevo Francis tanked 113 points in one game to rewrite the all-time individual scoring record. Reports indicate the towering sharpshooter earned the points the hard way—with three men assigned to put a curtain around him. This game must have been a real defensive thriller, with the final tally reading, 136 to 91. If the astronomic scores in basketball keep mounting, fans won't know when the basketball season ends and the track season begins. . . . Fans who like their basketball on the unusual side can find a different twist to the game when the All-American Redheads tangle with the Naval Air Station team at Pacific Grove tonight. The Redheads happen to be the opposite six from the flyers and it is a good bet that the girls will beat the good NAAS team. Not only can the Redheads shoot with expert precision, they also have persuasive powers to convince the opposition to let them stay ahead. . . . A power-laden Y. M. I. team of San Francisco gathered together a gang of ex-college greats to interrupt the Fort Ord winning streak at twenty-four straight. The winners had the good fortune to catch the Warriors in a cold shooting streak and provided one of the season's prize upsets. Coach Brown is confident that his soldiers have dropped their last game for this season.

. . . A busy Carmel High hoop squad takes on four opponents during the next six days. Tonight, the Padres travel to Gonzales for a league clash with the Spartans. Tomorrow night, a Peninsula natural matches Carmel with the Monterey Toreadores. Next Wednesday, Coach Tom Smith brings his Monterey Serra squads to the Carmel gym for a 4 o'clock double-header, and next Thursday, the Padres travel to Hollister for another league tilt. . . . Two great games at Pacific Grove High last Friday night as the surging Breakers copped a pair from the Gilroy Mustangs. Coach Howell's lightweights put on a stirring finish to nip the Gilroy lights, 39 to 38, while Coach Baskin's varsity crew surprised the championship-bound Gilroy varsity, 41 to 40, in one of the most exciting games ever played on the Peninsula. Fans may have a chance to see a rematch of this game as there is a strong possibility that Gilroy and PG will meet in the Carmel Tournament which starts on March 4th.

HORSEMEN TO STAGE LIVE HARE HUNT THIS WEEKEND

Western and English riders will participate in a live hare hunt, getting under way from the Pebble Beach Stables at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

By Kippy Stuart

Can you imagine living in a town that bursts into bloom in mid-winter? That's just where you are and in a few days Carmel will be a Golden Village. Genista, broom and acacia are putting forth their annual, pagent and we are all here to enjoy the sight.

Just what does genista mean? There are over fifty-one varieties of genista and even the experts have difficulty in identifying each one. The responsibility of the new home owner is to discover what his needs are in this colorful plant. Will he be satisfied with the wild scraggly variety? Or does he want the tall regal one or even the dwarf? The florist's genista, popular in the East, is Genista racemosa, and this dwarf variety does well in this location. All genistas do well here. Genista canariensis grows to about eight or nine feet tall with almost ever-blooming yellow plumes. You see genista canariensis in the Monte Verde garden of the Golden Bough Theater.

When we come to the acacia family we just sit down and take a rest, for there are over five hundred known acacias. Acacia baileyana is the most desired, with silvery-grey foliage and delicate yellow flowers. Baileyana is used as a free. Acacia verticillata is the strongest and best-growing hedge in captivity. This shrub will grow so dense that it defies either human or animal to penetrate. Verticillata foliage is similar to cypress yet much softer, and verticillata does not die out in sections as is the habit of cypress hedges. In the blooming period, verticillata showers the world with lemon-yellow tassels and its growth habits are phenomenal. I know of many verticillate hedges here in Carmel that have put forth branches as tall as two, and even three, feet in one year. As the plant matures, one can do just what one cares to do; keep it four feet and clipped; let it grow to ten or twelve feet and keep it clipped, or let it run its gamut with far-reaching feathery branches. One plant will cover ten feet of ground. (You can easily see that I am "that way" about Acacia verticillata.)

The distinctive plants called broom are merely another form of genista. Broom has funny names such as Butcher's-broom and cyrtisus. These names merely describe varieties. Genista-broom grows in a manner all its own with canes straight from the ground and few branching canes. Since all genista is designated as the pea family, it takes broom to show that up, for all along the canes, small colorful buds (that are really more like sweet pea than any other flower), cover the shrub. A stunning variety of broom (cyrtisus) is San Francisco. This plant puts forth yellow pea flowers with deep red hearts, a really showy fellow.

So, if you want a garden that will require small care, stock up with genistas and acacias, being careful to avoid the less desirable varieties of acacias—dealbata, longifolia and pubescens. These last three make excellent far away plantings on large plots of ground where one does not worry about the trash droppings.

Carmel Kids Make Music In Stockton

Last Saturday night John Farr, music instructor at Carmel High, shepherded two of his talented students to Hollister for participation in the annual concert of the Central Coast Section Honor Orchestra, comprising music students from each of the 10 high schools in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. Carmel's contributions to the orchestral tutti were cellist Patricia Doolittle and trumpeter Sam Smith.

This weekend, starting at the chill hour of 5:15 o'clock tomorrow morning, the hard-working Mr. Farr will escort a contingent of 23 young musicians and singers from the high school to Stockton for the fourth annual College of the Pacific mid-winter music clinic. All day tomorrow Mr. Farr's charges, along with some 2100 selected northern California and Nevada high school musicians, will practice under the tutelage of a corps of music educators and guest conductors. At 7:30 o'clock, the results of their efforts will be heard in a huge mass concert to take place in the Stockton Civic Auditorium, with the general public invited. The biggest Eine Kleine Nachtmusik on record is promised when the 295-piece string orchestra, directed by Kurt Herbert Adler of the San Francisco Opera Co., attacks Mozart's little serenade. In addition, a 6300-piece band directed by Pattee Evanson of San Diego State College will put the bang in Handel's Fireworks Suite, along with selections by Vaughan Williams and Bizet and a rousing march. For the finale, a 1200-voice chorus, conducted by Robert Wagner (founder of the Wagner Chorale in Los Angeles) will hymn forth a program including both sacred and secular music.

The 23 Carmel kids contributing to this organized sound and fury will be as follows. In the orchestra, playing the viola, Carol Boyd. In the band, flutist Priscilla Clark, clarinetists Charlotte Boyd and Millard Martin, horn Barbara Mitchell, trumpeters Sam Smith and Jon Menand, trombonist Dan Marshall and, on the baritone saxophone, Sue Stanton. Participating in the chorus will be sopranos Patricia Doolittle, Gwen Balazs, Naida Smith and Lorna Forster; altos Carole Goodrich, Betty Colman, Sue Harney and Gyll Meyer; tenor John Mason; baritone Roger Smith, Dave Warren and David Gray; and basses Dick Hilgers and Mike Gilbert.

The busload of kids, who probably won't get home before 2:00 or 3:00 Sunday morning, will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Farr; also tentatively planning to attend the concert tomorrow evening are Dr. and Mrs. Howard Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Doolittle and Mrs. Meyer.

Bates, Willox Josselyn Named To Planning Board

(Continued from Page One) years of John Ruster's term. The short term was given him because he had told the mayor the commission work might make too great demands on his time.

Willox, a member of the American Institute of Architects, came here in 1946 from Los Angeles where he had been structural engineer on a permanent construction at 20th Century Fox. From 1941 to 1944 he was at Pearl Harbor, serving in civilian capacity as an architect and structural engineer for the Navy. He has an office in Carmel and Wednesday, along with William D. Concolino, was selected architect for the Ord Terrace School. On Tuesday he was elected secretary-treasurer of the Monterey County Citizens' Planning Association.

MPC CAMPUS NEWS

By Allene Knight

The new semester started as of Monday, February 1. The students registered on that day and classes started on Tuesday. Many new students have enrolled, including a number of veterans. Some of the new students from Carmel are Frank Morehead, Chris Barnes, Jerry Ayers, Jo Albee, Bill Gorham, and Vance Lowrey.

The new officers who will serve this coming semester are Mel Bowen, president; Jane Lowrey, vice-president; Lorraine Bispo, secretary; Ed Lee, Commissioner of Social Affairs; Rudy Martin, Commissioner of Rallies and Assemblies; Gene Rummell, Commissioner of Athletics, and Richard Du Brau, Commissioner of Publications.

There will be no dance this weekend, as the basketball team plays two out-of-town games on Friday and Saturday nights. On February 13 and 22 there will be dances in the Student Union following the basketball games.

Pictures for the yearbook have been taken on campus this last week in the Arts and Crafts room. The sophomores wore their graduation gowns for these pictures.

CITY ART COMMITTEE

The mayor appointed a city arts committee as suggested by Donald Craig at last month's meeting, naming Craig, Armin Hansen, Herbert Heron, Francis Whitaker and Richard Lofton. They are to work out a plan for city sponsorship of local arts and crafts, with an annual purchase award for some representative art form for a city collection, especially for the improvement of the appearance of the council chambers. The council will be asked to set aside funds in the budget for the purpose. The committee will also pass on art gifts offered the city.

HIGHWAY NO. 1 CLOSED

California State Highway Department announced Tuesday that a severe fracture in the bridge chord at the Willow Creek Bridge on Highway No. 1 had been discovered that morning and a "Highway No. 1 Closed" sign had been put up at Carmel River.

Willow Creek is 60 miles south of Carmel. Road is open to the Big Sur, Partington Ridge and points north of Willow Creek.

Sleeping Beauty Ballet Opens Friday At The Golden Bough

Joanne Nix announces that as a prologue to this weekend's production of her full-length ballet, The Sleeping Beauty, on the stage of the Golden Bough Playhouse, one group of her students at the Carmel Ballet Academy will perform Introduction To The Ballet, a composition displaying the basic fundamentals of ballet which inculcate poise and grace to the finished ballerina.

The Sleeping Beauty and Introduction to the Ballet will be presented three times, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 o'clock and a Saturday matinee at 2:30.

Besides Matthew Meade King, guest soloist as The Prince, The Sleeping Beauty features Pamela Beales as Princess Aurora, Bonnie Wager as The Lilac Fairy, Renee Wurzmans as The Fairy of Enchantment, Gay Goffinet as The Blue Angel, Pamela Gamble as Cherry Blossom, and Cole Weston as Carabosse.

A departure from the usual painted stage sets will be the luxurious and authentic antiques used to furnish the Princess' palace bedroom. The couch where she sleeps is a valuable French chaise covered in ivory satin; the total value of the pieces which are to be used has been estimated by experts at $8,000. The prologue shows off its youthful dancers against black velvet drapes and a brilliant pink barre, the exercise bar of all dancers at practice.

Thrift Food Store Opens Here Today

Under the joint ownership of Le Earl ("Mac") McCaman and F. A. Roberts, Carmel's new Thrift Food Store has its grand opening today on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Both the partners are long-time residents of the Peninsula. Mac McCaman has made his home here for the past 30 years, during which time he has worked almost exclusively in the grocery and meat business; he and his wife and their two children live in Carmel. Roberts, who lives in Monterey, has for the past 20 years owned and operated the Thrift Food Store there.

The new market will feature a complete line of groceries, as well as top quality meats, custom-cut to the customer's order which we'll sell, the partners say, at prices everyone can afford.

VAN PELT GETS FIRST CALL

Fire Department rushed two blocks yesterday morning to Dolores and Fourth streets to extinguish a fire caused when Water Company men, excavating at that location, accidentally struck a gas service line. Gas leaking from a hole in the service ignited, but the blaze was extinguished and the leak patched by the time the department arrived on the scene.

The occasion at least provided a brief if authentic baptism in action for the department's gleaming new Van Pelt engine.

GAVEL FOR NEW CHURCH

A gavel hand-fashioned by Antone Ara Bia of native Carmel wood will be presented at the annual Presbyterian Day meeting on March 7 in Richmond as a token from the new Presbyterian Church in Carmel. Some 4000 persons are expected at the gathering. Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers, pastor of the Carmel parish, will be among the guests.

Visit from the Morley Baers

Visiting in town last week were Mr. and Mrs. Morley Baer and their young son, Joshua. The Baers, former Carmelites, have nearly completed the remodeling of their home in the Berkeley hills, and are up to their ears in photographic work—some of which they dispatched while here on the Peninsula.

Caroline G. Fitch

Board Approves Remodeling Of McPhillips Hotel

Friday afternoon the Carmel Planning Commission, meeting as a board of adjustments, granted Calvin C. Ford's application for a special permit to remodel the McPhillips Hotel on San Carlos and Fifth. The hotel, which has no off-street parking, is in non-conforming use since it was built before the ordinance was passed requiring hotels and apartments to provide off-street parking equal to two-thirds of the housing units. Ford showed that his plans called for a reduction of the number of the present units, providing fewer and larger rooms, and a lobby.

The board also approved James McNeill's plans for an addition to the rear of his laundromat at Junipero near Fourth, and Mrs. Maude Ralke's to remodel her building opposite the postoffice, so it can be used as a doctor's office.

Commission members discussed possible ways of improving the appearance of the parking area at the foot of Ocean Avenue, considering planting boxes and a dividing stone wall. Mrs. Talbert Josselyn, chairman, delegated Mrs. Hurd Comstock to confer with Street Commissioner Francis Whitaker on what could be done.

Christopher Fry's Play Coming To Wayfarer Church

Bobby Driscoll, Hollywood's two-time academy award winner, will appear in the title role of Christopher Fry's play, The Boy With a Cart, on February 12 at 8:15 o'clock at the Church of the Wayfarer. This will mark the first time in America that a major Hollywood personality has appeared in drama-in-the-church.

The young Mr. Driscoll, who has starred in such films as Treasure Island, So Dear To My Heart, and Peter Pan, will play the role of Cuthman in the Bishop's Company's production of the Fry play. Others in the cast include Minna Caldwell, playing the mother, Sarah Gates, Elizabeth Wolfe, Hol Bokar, Dick Tretter, and George Carlisle. Narrators are Ed Rees and James Wheaton.

The Bishop's Company has been touring Southern California since January of 1953, and the Carmel performance will be among the first in a tour which will take the group to the San Francisco Bay Area for a long series of engagements.

The performance on February 12 is sponsored by a large number of local patrons, and patron tickets are available by calling 7-3550. There will be no admission charge.

RECRUITS WANTED

Mrs. Isabel Terhune, chairman of the Carmel Red Cross Grey Ladies, wants 18 volunteers to be trained as Grey Ladies to work at Fort Ord Hospital, assist in the Blood Bank and help out in the chapter office.

Interviews will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Carmel Red Cross chapter house, and the Grey Ladies' work will be outlined. Applicants should be over 25 years of age. No previous experience is necessary.

Classes will begin the last week in February, and will be held at the local chapter house under Mrs. Terhune. Following the short training course, the recruits will have two days of orientation work under the military at Fort Ord.

SOIREE EXCEPTIONNELLE!

Samedi dernier, a la reunion de la Causerie Francaise, dans un atmosphere francais par excellence, dans une salle ravissante ornee entierement d'affiches francaises, l'inimitable Andre Ferrier, fondateur du theatre Francais de San Francisco, a recite des poemes charmants d'Edmond Rostand dont la langue est accessible a tous, et ou il a deploye toutes les nuances de son art et de sa sensibilité. Il a termine par un morceau amusant d'Alphonse Daudet dont la langue est aussi une des plus aisees et des plus pures du XIX siecle.

Monsieur Jean Carry a lu un morceau emouvant d'Alfred de Musset et a conquis la salle entiere. Madame Ferrier a aussi recite un petit poeme amusant qui a plu a tout le monde.

La jolie voix de Gaby Bodin, divette distinguee, a charme l'assistance par ses chansons amusantes et serieuses.

Cette soiree agreable s'est terminee par une comedie en un acte de Max Maurey, qui a ete jouee avec verve et virtuosite theatrale par Gaby Bodin, Jean Carry, Andre Ferrier et Fritz Wurzmann. Le mouvement de la mise en scene ne s'est pas arrete un moment.

Comme d'habitude Monsieur Edgard Bissantz, le president, a commence la reunion par un de ses petits discours toujours tres amusants.

La Causerie Francaise doit etre fiere d'avoir eu une telle soiree.

Gordon Quartet Gives Fine Concert At Del Monte School

In a setting of intimacy and warmth so desirable for chamber music, the Gordon String Quartet presented a program of Beethoven, Haydn, and Dvorak in Douglas Hall at the Del Monte School for Boys Friday night. It was the third concert in the School Artists Series.

Haydn's Quartet in D Major, Opus 20, Number 4, delighted the listeners with its lightness, clarity and style. The themes were well brought out and the underlying melodic lines always clear. The Beethoven number—B-Flat Major, Opus 74—was performed with authority and understanding.

Best liked was the Dvorak Quartet in F Major, Opus 96. This quartet is an excellent example of impressions of American native music and the musicians themselves seemed to thoroughly enjoy its rhythmic patterns.

For an encore the musicians responded with a movement from the Shostakovich.

Shakespeare Group Meets To Select Festival Play

With the next meeting of the Shakespeare group on Thursday in the Guild Hall at the Forest Theater, the winter series of readings will be concluded. The Comedy of Errors will be finished, and those who have attended the readings will then hold a discussion of the six plays that have been covered, with the purpose of gaining an expression of the group's preferences for the summer festival. The group met first in October, and except for the Christmas holidays, has worked on Shakespeare every Thursday evening for four months. Six of the dramas have been read, three tragedies: King Lear, Othello, Richard the Third, and three comedies: As You Like It, The Winter's Tale, The Comedy of Errors. None of these has ever been staged in the Forest Theater, with the minor exception of a few scenes from As You Like It, given only in the afternoon many years ago.

Bert Heron has indicated that he will be largely swayed by the opinions expressed at this meeting, for he says that he would rather produce a play that was enthusiastically called for by the group than one which, though possibly his own preference, was not a fervent choice of those who have so loyally worked with him through the winter. He believes that if those who are to do the work get joy out of the doing, the audiences are more likely to share in that joy.

Severin Saphir, 1st violin; Maxim Drucker, 2nd violin; Robert Gordon, viola; and Mrs. Ruth Saphir, violincello.

The next concert in the Artists Series will be a piano-duo with Miss Angie Machado and Miss Dorothy Heer on Friday, February 19.

The tour sails April 24 from Quebec on the SS Atlantic, arriving in Le Havre April 30. Opportunities for sketching, painting and visiting museums and other points of artistic interest will be emphasized throughout the tour, which will take in France, Belgium and Holland, with extended stops in Paris. The return trip aboard MS Italia sails May 24, arriving in New York June 2.

Information and reservations may be obtained from Mr. Cameron, 1147 High Court, Berkeley.

Musical Art Club Invites Community To Hear Miss Eustis

For their first concert of the season, the Musical Art Club has secured the appearance of the rising celebrity Dorothy Eustis, pianist, on Wednesday evening, 8:00 o'clock at the Carmel Woman's Club.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge for Musical Art Club concerts.

The young artist will perform a heavy program, ranging all the way from Bach-Busoni to Debussy, Poulenc and other moderns. She is American born and trained, a pupil of many leading artists, particularly Harold Bauer and Artur Schnabel to whom she owes much of her success. Playing in Hollywood Bowl for three engagements, and four New York Town Hall appearances, are among the highlights of her career. The Musical Art Club in the past has presented a few younger artists who have since reached the peak of popularity, and they believe this young woman is to be another of their notable "finds". A flying trip to Los Angeles for a TV appearance made possible Miss Eustis's appearance here.

Massed Choir Sings At Asilomar Tonight

A festival of religious music is to be sung tonight by the massed choirs of the Monterey Peninsula in Merrill Hall at Asilomar. The concert starts at 8:00 o'clock and there will be a small admission charge.

Dr. William Wellington Norton will conduct the choirs which have been rehearsing, as individual groups, for the past six months. There will be 100 voices. Dr. Norton comes from the College of the Pacific where he holds the chair of religious music.

Capital of Norway . . .

(During Mrs. Sisson's trip to Norway last summer the Pine Cone printed a number of her letters. Now that she has returned to Carmel, she will complete the account of her impressions of her first visit in many years to her native country.)

By ASTRID SISSON,
PART II

Half a block to the left and up a narrow street is Husfliden, the sales and display rooms of the Homes Arts and Crafts Society. Everything here is made by hand, mostly in the home: materials for clothes, upholstery, drapes, curtains, handknits of every sort and handcrafted furniture, all at prices which seem very modest if translated into dollars.

Continuing down the street to the left of Stortorget one comes to another square on which has been built Oslo's newest theater, Folketeateret, where I saw the first revolving stage. The play was Claire Boothe Luce's The Women. At the National Theater I saw Schiller's Maria Stuart and heard an Oslo Philharmonic Concert, directed by Eugene Ormandy.

Along Karl Johans Gate are many of the best shops, several tourist bureaus, and a number of good hotels. The street on the other side of Studenterlunden is called Stortingsgaten. Here are also good hotels and shops, and, walking towards the Palace, one comes to Oslo's Tourist Bureau, with the United States Embassy offices in the same building, and next door the American Library with comfortable reading and study rooms, a fine collection of books, and the latest magazines. In charge are eager, attentive people ready with almost any information of interest to visitors from The States, or of interest to the Norwegians and visitors from other countries.

Two blocks off Karl Johans Gate, towards the fjord, lies the City Hall, the newest and most important public building in Oslo. It stands facing the fjord, and is of an impressive, sort of sturdy beauty, well suited to the city and its people.

Every recognized Norwegian artist, whose work could enhance or enrich the beauty of the building, has made his contribution. Murals are on every wall from the great entrance hall to the smaller rooms on the upper floors, and these picture Norway's history from early days to the present, her means of livelihood, people at their daily tasks, her struggles through to ages to maintain herself as a nation, her planning to give all her people opportunities, according to their capacities and will to use them, and a step by step record of her cultural growth through her social activities.

Sculptors and engravers have in the decoration of this building given expression through their particular medium, whether it be stone, brass, bronze or copper. Wrought iron work is here as sturdy as the building and as delicate as lace. Stones of various degrees of hardness and appearance have been used for a single work with astounding results. The beautiful floors are made of many-shaded native marble, and the outside decorations include many statues and fountains, and panels carved in wood of life-size legendary figures, the work done so skilfully that the figures seem ready to step out of their panels to greet the visitors.

The building has handmade furniture, made of homegrown materials, and with a thought for its function. The tapestries in the smaller rooms are also handwoven in Norway, each with a scene related to the use of that particular room. The building is surrounded by The Sun Court, a beautiful garden overlooking the fjord, where the citizens may enjoy the sun while watching the traffic on the fjord.

Other public buildings in this compact few miles of central Oslo is Akershus Fort and Palace, a survival from the Middle Age, overlooking Oslo fjord. Built by King Haakaan the Fifth in

AFTER BACH

*Gliding like salt birds over the edges of the sea
Further, further travel the overlapping circles*

*Of the great concerto, the sonata, the significant Mass
Confluently descending,
Breaking the earth's wide arc
With the tremendous, heaving vibrations,
Transcendent, earthly, divine,
Raucous as the rock-crashed thunder of water.
Away travels the echoing fugue
Returning again and again to repeat its sequence
In the mind's register;
Reverberation upon reverberation,
Now remembered, now fading like the image*

*Beneath the closed, protesting eye-lids.
So to the ear the magnificent cadences
Grow less and less in their deep probing
And finally disperse to whispers,
Leaving the impressions of lasting joy and peace
Hovering in the breast of remembered music.*

—CATHERINE GILL.

FROZEN ALLEGRO

*Only the barren know this tongue of scorn
And good wives' pity for their childless state,
This eloquence that scratches like a thorn
While mothers tend their young and speculate
On such a bland alternative, such ease.
"Can it be gold that she prefers to love?
The teacup to a trial of pain? She flees
That miracle which only time can prove."
They do not know who lies in the faceless dark
And yearns with all her being for this choice:
A body great with love's awakening spark
The frozen allegro of a waiting voice
And breasts that open like flowers to golden air
That the bee, the child, may suck for honey there.*

—MARGARET LEWIS ALBANESE.

TEST

*The wind presses cold hands to window glass
searching softness
in reflections.*

—BOB NYSTEDT.

ANTELOPE VALLEY

*See the swallows swift
Through delfened sky—
The steel-blue and the purple swallows
Back from Capistrano's
Aged orphic oracles
With flinted tongues afire!
Where sunlight brushes drip of scarlet
Through slow-pulsing indigo
Where spring-bloom-colors lift like Raphaelite's
The painted swallows jet
With musics from the sea—*

*The shell-toned, secret melody
Of winged naiads
Through the colored corridors.*

—VERA LA CLAUSTRA.

1300, it served as a royal residence until the end of that century. Now it is used on occasions for official functions, and the public may always go through it.

The Theater Museum occupies a private residence built in 1625, which might be worth seeing by anyone interested in the theater. The National Gallery, near the university, has an extensive collection of paintings by Norwegian artists. It also has originals by French moderns such as Matisse, Cezanne and Van Gogh. There is a separate section for sculptures.

In the Museum of Applied Arts, of special interest is the Norwegian collection on the third floor, which shows the growth of applied arts in Norway from 1100 to 1850. Similar collections from other countries are on the fourth and fifth floors.

Amaldus Nielsen's collections are next door, one of Norway's most esteemed artists who lived from 1838 to 1932.

The Artists' League has displays and salesrooms of modern paintings and ceramics.

The Post Office Museum has stamp collections from all countries. The Norwegian collection gives one a good understanding of Norway's communications developments during the last 300 years. Collectors will find a salesroom on the first floor.

The Norwegian School Museum gives a factual picture of the development of the public schools. Norway has no illiteracy.

The Nobel Institute, built in 1867, was taken over by the Nobel Institute in 1905. The Nobel Peace Prize, awarded yearly by the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Parliament, is formally presented in the banquet hall of this building. The institute has an extensive library of international law, political science, and political history. At the street entrance stands a bust of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish donor of the Nobel Prize. The bust is by Vigeland.

It is worth taking a trip to Oslo just to see the (Gustav) Vigeland Sculpture Park, which, with a few exceptions, houses Vigeland's complete work. A five-cent street car fare takes one there from any part of the city, and no entrance fee is asked.

Entering through the beautiful wrought iron portals Alice had no greater surprise when she slipped through the looking glass, than has the person who sees the Sculpture Park for the first time. The overwhelming surprise is untransferable into words. Placed on a slight incline, the hundreds of statues are in plain sight as one comes into the open through a long lane with a double planting of linden trees.

Ahead lies a bridge crossing Frogner Lake with 58 bronze groups and single figures placed on pedestals along the balustrade of the bridge. The figures are larger than life-size, but so well proportioned and life-like that their breasts seem to rise and fall with their breathing. Beyond is a fountain surrounded by statues, and on the slight hill ahead, stairs, which must be the width of half a city block, lead to the top, and to the greatest wonder of all, the monolith. Below the bridge lies the children's playground, skirting Frogner Lake. For the pleasure of the children a fairy-tale boat runs on the lake, taking the children for rides. And how they love it.

Stopping to look at each statue or group by itself, it is astonishing what the scrutiny yields. One soon understands that this is work done by an artist with genius for sensing the joys and sorrows of a people, and an uncanny skill to picture them.

The statue of a little girl catches the attention. The face looks impish and charming, her outspread hands pat her tummy, which, from the expression of her face, must be filled to her satisfaction with goodies. A little boy stands on his pedestal nearby looking soberly off into distance, as if he wants no traffic with the girl's nonsense, and a little show-off stands on his head, his body straining with the effort. ## Grade School Notes . . .

Raymond Gere's Eighth Grade

Mr. Raymond Gere's eighth grade class has been studying the history of the United States. We are going to write to people and organizations in the original Thirteen States. They can give us information about their states. We might write to the governors, to the Departments of Interiors; also to the chambers of commerce and the larger industries such as steel, coal and oil, and to the national parks, and to some of the airplane plants and airfields. Gathering information from these sources will add to our knowledge of our country and will give us experience in putting into practice our study of business-letter writing.

—Mike Raggett

In the past, the eighth graders have had a chance to participate in various club activities once a week. Now, for the first time, this opportunity has been extended to the seventh grade also. The two grades together will have a chance to be in one of the following clubs: Crafts, Newspaper, Science, Archery, Glee Club, Dramatics, Sketching and Literature. This gives each person a chance to follow up his interest in one of these separate fields.

—Gail Mackenzie

Mr. Gere's eighth grade class won the Red Cross sponsored magazine drive with a total of 469 selected magazines. The magazines will go to soldiers overseas. We are grateful to Steve Crouch who brought the largest number, 397 of them.

—Kay McFail

On Friday, January 22, the Sunset All-Stars clashed with the Carmel High School Freshman sub team. The half time score was 14-9, the final score, 23-13 in favor of the All-Stars. High-point man for the Sunset squad as well as for the game was Jim Oliver with a total of 11 points.

—Art Wilkerson

On Friday, January 22, the three eighth grade classes were invited to attend a birthday dance given by Joan Engle and Marilyn Reid. The party was held at Holman's Guest Ranch. It was a beautiful night, almost like spring weather. We danced and had games and enjoyed refreshments of ice-cream and cake and punch. The party was a big success.

—Carolyn Miller

Mr. Gere's eighth grade class has been preparing for a U.S. Constitution and history test. Every eighth grade student must pass successfully these phases of their Social Studies program before entering high school.

We have covered material from the earliest beginnings of Democracy in the Mediterranean Basin and the Fertile Crescent up through the Revolutionary War and the drawing up of the Constitution. At present we are investigating the meanings of the various Articles of the Constitution and learning what they mean to us.

—Diane Paddleford

Larry Tanaka, new student at Sunset School, came to us from Monterey. Originally, Larry came from Hawaii, the place of his birth, but since his arrival in this country in 1948, he has been attending school in the Monterey school system. Having been at Sunset only four weeks, Larry gives us an idea of what we are to expect of him by being elected president of his class just last week.

—Robin Way

The Boy Scouts have a new summer camp near Little Sur. It is located on the Palo Colorado Canyon Road. There are six buildings at the camp at present. Some members of Troop 32 went down for the weekend to survey the whole camp so that they could make a scale model of it for the Scout-O-Rama.

—Tom Wilson

Last month Miss Eleanor Cence's eighth grade class presented a reproduction of one of Jack Benny's shows. The whole class participated in the production in some way.

Gary Troxel, who used to live in Hollywood, was rummaging around behind the broadcasting studio where Benny's shows are originated and found the script.

The actual Jack Benny show was broadcast in the spring of 1950 or 1951. You may vaguely remember the script; it involves a scene in which Jack takes a group of Scouts to the circus.

The settings were simple but adequate.

—Judy Sargent

Capital Of Norway . . .

(Continued from Page Six) and groups are there of young boys and girls with beautiful bodies and tender young faces. Parents are joyously playing with their children. Children are busy with their games. A young man seems so full of energy and drive that the statue creates an illusion of movement, as do the other statues mentioned.

From the bridge several paths lead to the fountain with a central group of five muscular men straining to hold up an enormous dish from which water cascades endlessly into a small artificial lake beneath. This is surrounded by a bronze wall several feet high with continuous panels in bas-relief. Atop this bronze wall are placed five arborial groups in each corner, twenty in all, in which trees and human beings are intertwined, creating appealing but astonishing patterns. A narrow, water-filled moat surrounds the whole.

From these terraces and stairs continue to the monolith, a seventeen meter high single block of stone, carved with hundreds of struggling human beings, from infants to the very old, depicting humanity's struggle upwards toward better things. Surrounding it are thirty-six granite groups placed on the broad stairs. A group named The Wheel of Life is greatly admired.

Any day in the week, no matter what the weather, people wander through the park admiring, amazed, overwhelmed. Here one man's dream of beauty, and his will and strength to make it more than a dream, has found expression. Never had a creative artist more fa-

FIRST AID CLASS

A Standard First Aid Course will start in the Carmel Red Cross Chapter House on Tuesday morning, February 16, from 9 to 11 o'clock. Classes will be held Tuesdays and Fridays for three consecutive weeks. The class will be limited to 20 members. Mrs. Eleanor Poyer, first aid chairman, and Dr. Margaret Barnes will be the instructors. To enroll, phone Carmel Chapter Office 7-6921.

Ashton Stanley Gone To Coronado

Ashton Stanley, managing lessee of La Playa Hotel left Carmel last week for Coronado Beach, where on February 1 he officially took over the managing directorship of the fine old Hotel del Coronado.

Stanley emphasized that the move will not affect either his interest in or the existing policy of La Playa; he will continue as its managing lessee, and the hotel, in Stanley's words, "will remain at all times under my personal direction. As in the past Mogens V. Hilborg will continue to manage the property under my direction. There are no charges contemplated in the staff. My wife and myself entertain the hope that we may acquire permanent ownership of the property sometime in the future." (Present owners of the hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Godwin of Carmel Valley.)

The move has made it necessary for Stanley to resign his post as district chairman of the Boy Scouts and as vice-president of the Reserve Officers Association. He will retain his place on the board of directors of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce and as a member of the general committee for the formation of the chamber of commerce's new convention bureau. His proposed resignation from the Carmel Rotary Club was tabled by the board in hopes that he might be able to remain at least an inactive member. Stanley was also Carmel co-ordinator for last year's Community Chest drive.

Birthday for Mrs. Reynolds

A no-host birthday luncheon and bridge party honoring Mrs. Norman Reynolds was presented by her many Carmel friends Saturday afternoon at Holiday Inn. Early spring flowers brightened the birthday table at which Mrs. Reynolds opened the numerous greetings received from both local and out-of-town friends and cut the festive cake; the group also presented the honor guest with a lovely gift.

Helping Mrs. Reynolds celebrate the occasion were her daughter, Mrs. Paul Coleman, and the Mesdames Joseph Schoeninger, Vera Millis, Kent Clarke, Alice Hamilton, Thornton Allen, Harry Lansdowne, Robert Kent, Lee Kellogg, W. B. Swain, Charles DeVault, William S. Johnston, Herbert Tolfree, William Heathorne, William Ross, Daniel Gray, Verne Skillman, Willard Wheeler and Fenton Grigsby.

Tea at the Terwilligers

Some fifty of their Carmel friends responded to the invitation of Dr. and Mrs. Charles V. O. Terwilliger for a tea Wednesday afternoon at their Hatton Fields home. No particular occasion for the affair; just a cheerful gathering of some of the many couples the Terwilligers have met since the professor took over his post as chairman of the department of electrical engineering at the Naval P.G. School.

Assisting the hosts were Mrs. James McNeill, Mrs. D. McMillan Kerr, Mrs. Lee Hamilton, Mrs. C. J. Ryland, Mrs. Byron Dague, Mrs. Herbert Tolfree, Mrs. Rollo Payne, Mrs. Russell Townsend and Mrs. George Lamont, who shared the service of pouring at the beautifully appointed tea table.

The members of the P.T.A. board will act as hostesses at the tea, with Mrs. Eugene Scheffer in charge of arrangements. Greeting committee will consist of Mrs. James Pruett, Mrs. H. B. Blanks and Mrs. Fred Farr, while tea will be served by Mrs. Eugene Harrah and Mrs. James Campbell.

Karen, Charis Home from Turkey

At 2:00 o'clock last Wednesday morning, Karen Williams and Charis Buckminster made home base after a trip which carried them halfway around the world. The pair left Carmel last October for points east: their goal, Turkey — and a visit with Charis' husband, Airman 1/c William Bradley Buckminster, who's been stationed at Trabzon (near the Russian border) since his transfer from Germany.

For Charis, the homecoming meant a reunion with a small, but significant member of the family: her 16-month-old daughter, who's been staying here with Charis' aunt, Miss Elsa Blackman, during her mother's absence. Charis' husband is also due to arrive here shortly: he was scheduled to sail for home just shortly after the girls departed, and is expected in Carmel at any time. He and Charis and the baby will then head for Colorado Springs, his new station with the Air Force.

In the meantime Karen, the daughter of Mrs. Mona Williams, has returned to her previous job

Martha Moller to Wed

Wedding plans were completed this week by Martha Jane Moller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Moller of Carmel, and Kenneth Moore Donaldson of San Francisco. The couple will be married on Saturday, February 20, at 3:00 o'clock in All Saints' Episcopal Church, with the Rev. A. B. Secombe to preside. The reception will take place at the Mollers' Hatton Fields home.

Martha was graduated with the class of '48 from Carmel High School. After a year at Scripps College in Pomona, she transferred to the University of California, where she affiliated with Alpha Phi sorority. After receiving her degree from U.C. she completed a course of post-graduate work at the Kathleen Gibbs School in Boston, ultimately returning to San Francisco where she entered her present secretarial position.

The future benedict is the son of Mrs. W. N. Donaldson and the late Mr. Donaldson of El Cerrito. A World War II veteran with a record of combat service in the Pacific Theatre, he graduated from U.C. and is currently in business in San Francisco.

For her bridal attendants, Martha has named her two sisters-in-law, Mrs. George Moller of Berkeley and Mrs. Halbert Moller of Salinas, and a former sorority sister, Mrs. Robert Dias of Los Altos. Her two nieces, Elizabeth and Anne Moller, will be flower girls. Standing up with the groom will be his brother, William Donaldson.

A.A.U.W. Section

The International Relations and Evening Book Sections of the A.A.U.W. will meet jointly on Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hill in Pacific Grove.

The program will consist of a review of Vernon Bartlett's new book, Struggle for Africa, by Mrs. Eugene Crittenden. An evaluation of the book, which deals with current problems in the major areas of Africa, will be augmented by Mrs. Crittenden's personal commentary on the Belgian Congo, in which she has a special interest.

Dessert will be served following the meeting, with Miss Mabel Hoffman, Miss Naomi Giddings and Mrs. William Hubbard as co-hostesses. Co-chairman are Mrs. D. F. Taugher and Mrs. Douglas Martz.

All Saints' Brotherhood Meets

Edward Kennedy, editor and former foreign correspondent, will draw from his own long experience when he speaks informally on Adventures in Newspaper Work at a dinner meeting of the All Saints' Brotherhood Wednesday evening.

The general male public, regardless of church membership, is invited to attend the dinner and the program to follow. The meeting will take place at 7:00 o'clock in the church parish hall.

Robert Menand, newly-elected president of the Brotherhood, will preside at the meeting, first for the 1954 season. Other new officers in the organization, elected at a meeting of the board last month, are Cecil Murphree, vice president, and Albert Osler, secretary-treasurer. Committee chairmen are Lt. Comdr. Frank Mayo, program committee; P. W. Bullock, publicity; and Capt. Wells Thompson, garden and patio sale.

Maneuvers with the Navy

John D. Wahl, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George D. Wahl of San Luis and San Lucas roads, is one of nearly 14,000 Navy and Marine personnel participating in Operation Lant TraEx 2-54, an extended amphibious training exercise in the Caribbean area. John, whose rank is storekeeper-seaman, is serving aboard the attack transport USS Sarasota.

School Week Plans Discussed

The program committee of the Carmel High School P.T.A. unit met Tuesday afternoon to lay preliminary plans for the high school's participation in national Public Schools Week, to begin April 26. Though still in the formative stage, plans call for sectional exhibits in various departments at the school throughout the week.

The committee also set March 2 as the date for a potluck supper for the members of the high school P.T.A. group.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Gordon Reid, Mrs. Joseph Fratessa, Mrs. V. A. Frizel, Mrs. Luke Shields and Mrs. Robert Ross. Faculty representatives are Miss Enid Larson, Lloyd Miller and Warren Edwards.

Dr. and Mrs. Young Visit

After an absence of 20 years Dr. and Mrs. William G. Young spent the weekend in Carmel as house guests of Barnet J. Segal.

The Youngs left here in 1927 for California Tech where he was awarded his doctorate in chemistry. Soon after he joined the faculty of UCLA becoming head of the Chemistry Department there. For the past four years he has been Dean of Physical Science and is also a National Director of The American Chemical Society.

Dr. Young spent two years here associated with the Carpegie Institute experimental laboratory in Carmel, then under the supervision of Dr. D. T. MacDougall.

Ruster Fun and Fanfare

Herewith, a report of another of those big times at the John Rusters'.

Four days of assorted family celebration commenced Saturday evening, with the Rusters' observance of their wedding anniversary. Their guests for the anniversary dinner, which featured steak and kidney pie, were Donnan, Lee and Robinson Jeffers. Digestion completed, the younger Jeffers and the Rusters repaired to Mister Roberts at the Wharf Theatre, while Robinson returned home to baby-sit.

On Sunday, Katie's father and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roydon Vosburg, arrived from San Marino for a visit, and were guests of the Rusters at a dinner which displayed another specialite de la maison: wild rice pilaff. Monday night Mr. Ruster's mother, Mrs. Robert Oberföhren, celebrated her birthday, and she and her husband entertained Rusters and others with a small cocktail party. Afterwards, by way of a change from Katie's exotic cooking, Vosburgs and Rusters went out for a quiet steak dinner and Katie rushed off for a play rehearsal.

Tuesday marked the seventh birthday of the Rusters' daughter, Heidi, and to mark the occasion Katie made up what resembled a recumbent pinata—made of crepe paper and ruffles instead of clay—filled with toys and candies, which she took down to River School. The pinata, along with a generous quantity of brownies also manufactured by Katie, was enjoyed by Heidi's entire class of 23 second and third graders, not to mention their teacher, Mrs. Fern Blee. That evening Heidi was honored with a birthday supper at home, with hamburgers, chocolate cake and ice cream served against a Mexican decor. Her guests were Lindsay Jeffers, Sue Byrne, Sherri Skoog, Donald Rich and George Chandler. Katie, in a weakened condition from blowing up too many balloons, retired, but arose Wednesday morning bright-eyed to bake some bread. By way of relaxation since then, she and Peter, the Ruster youngest, have spent langorous hours on the beach and in the saddle: Katie's teaching Peter to ride.

Birthday Party for Serra School

The 11th anniversary of the founding of Junipero Serra School at Carmel Mission was observed yesterday with the traditional birthday luncheon, held this year at Highlands Inn and sponsored by the Junipero Serra Mothers' Club.

Special guests for the occasion included Msgr. Michael D. O'Connell and Father Richard Kinsella of Carmel Mission and Father Ignatius Loughran of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel in Carmel Valley, Mrs. Joseph McClosky of the Mission Altar Society and Mrs. Paul Masuen of Catholic Daughters. Other guests were Mrs. Fred Devendorf, Mrs. John Skillman and Mrs. Roderick Clayton, president, vice-president and secretary, respectively, of the Carmel P.T.A.

The Mothers' Club members and their guests, some 65 in all, enjoyed a recital of tales from Irish mythology by the Big Sur storyteller, Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter, in a program following the luncheon.

Mrs. John Doud, president of the Junipero Serra Mothers' Club, presided at the luncheon and introductions. Chairman of the luncheon committee was Mrs. Shelburn Robison, assisted by Mrs. Cathleen Ross and Mrs. Orville Jones.

Potters Party in Bay Area

Mr. and Mrs. Zenas Potter spent the past weekend in Berkeley, renewing old acquaintances and catching up on happenings in the Bay Area during their stay abroad. Saturday evening, the Potters were entertained with a dinner party at the Berkeley home of Prof. and Mrs. George Stewart, long-time friends. Prof. Stewart, who teaches in the English department at Cal, is the author of Storm, Fire and other books.

The previous weekend, the Potters and their daughter Mrs. Margaret Hensel were participants in a family reunion in San Francisco, when former Senator William Benton of Connecticut entertained in honor of his aunt, Dr. Mary L. Benton of Oakland, who was celebrating her 90th birthday. Dr. Benton, a former professor at Smith College, is Mrs. Potter's aunt, and Senator Benton Mrs. P.'s cousin. Also present at the birthday party was the Potter's other daughter, Constance, and her husband Alan Bruce, who make their home in Palo Alto.

DKG Affairs Planned

Mrs. Elise deCelles Beaton spent Saturday in Pasadena in an all-day session planning the statewide Delta Kappa Gamma convention. Mrs. Beaton, state publicity chairman for the organization, says the theme of the April conference will be Creative Leadership in Education.

Tomorrow afternoon DKG will have a regional meeting in Palo Alto, the theme of which will be Adjusting to the Global Age. Speakers will include Dr. I. J. Quillan, dean of the school of education at Stanford, and Mrs. Maria Pierce of Pasadena, national president of DKG. Carmelites who will be attending the all-day sessions include Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. Lillian Downey, Mrs. Marcia DeVoe and Miss Allene Luther.

Tea Party on the Point

Mrs. William Heathorne and Mrs. Willard W. Terrill were joint hostesses at an informal tea party from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon at the latter's Carmel Point home. Some 40 of the hostesses' Carmel friends and neighbors attended the sociable affair. Assisting in the preparations and service was Mrs. Heathorne's daughter, Mrs. Frank Moller, likewise a Carmel Point denizen.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The wholly spiritual nature of effective prayer which overcomes sin, sickness, and sorrow, will be set forth at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Selections from the Authorized King James Version of the Bible and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy comprise the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

Scriptural texts include the following words of Christ Jesus from John:

"The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him. God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (4:23 the, 24).

The following correlative citation from Science and Health by Mrs. Eddy will also be read:

"To enter into the heart of prayer, the door of the erring senses must be closed. Lips must be mute and materialism silent, that man may have audience with Spirit, the divine Principle, Love, which destroys all error" (15:9).

Council Weathers 3 Squalls, Another Coming February 17

four ayes, one nay, Don Craig's. Jesse Lubin was the storm center of the third squall. He did not approve the curb that had been put along a planting in front of his home on Carpenter between Fifth and Sixth. One car had run into it, others probably would, he considered the curb a safety hazard and gave notice that he disclaimed all responsibility for any traffic accident that might transpire at that spot. "It's dangerous, it's unsightly, you've spoiled my property."

Lubin's contractor John Brodie had put in an illegal amount of blacktop when he surfaced Lubin's driveway, extending the surface along the sidewalk area, contrary to ordinance which requires space left for plantings. The city council disapproving, had instructed Brodie to remove some of the black top and put in the plantings, which Brodie did and which Lubin termed dangerous, and unsightly.

Don Craig agreed with Lubin that the construction is "an eyesore." And Whitaker reddened again. Brodie had put the plantings and curb in according to Whitaker's plans and specifications.

Whitaker suggested the mayor appoint a committee of two councilmen, two planning commission members and Mr. Lubin to confer next week and see how the situation could be improved. Mayor Horace Lyon named Dora Comstock and Gladys Kiplinger from the planning commission, and Whitaker to the committee and asked Whitaker who he wanted from the council to serve with him. Whitaker, still red, looked at Craig, hesitated. "Put Don on," he said and laughed. Craig grinned. Those two are going to miss each other when Craig's term expires in March.

The squalls predicted for February, when an adjourned council meeting will be held, will not be labelled Craig-Whitaker.

Whitaker told the council that he had received a check from Sinclair McClellan for $675, the property owners' share of the cost of opening North Casanova Street into Fourth. McClellan had put up all of the $675 himself. Council thought it would be better not to act on the matter until an adjourned meeting on February 17.

Though it was not mentioned at the meeting, it is known that the property owner across the street from McClellan and other property owners on Casanova Street are bitterly opposed to the opening of their quiet street to through traffic. Piquancy is lent to the situation by the fact that McClellan is Councilwoman Gerry Smith's father, and the objecting property owner across the street is Mrs. Robert Taylor, Councilman John Chitwood's mother-in-law.

Daughter for the Solomones

A new baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Solomone: six pounds, seven and a half ounces, and born January 25 at Peninsula Community Hospital. Her name is Barbara Jo, and the Solomones are unqualified in their approval of her; however, her eight-year-old brother, Jeff, admits that given a choice, he would have preferred a boy.

New Demo Club Officers

At the annual luncheon meeting of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club Wednesday at the Girl Scout House, Mrs. Edwin C. Tucker presided until the election of new officers, when the gavel was turned over to Mrs. Virginia C. Mitchell, the new president. Mrs. Jack Wickham was elected vice-president, Miss Harriet Hayes recording secretary, Mrs. Paul Low corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Douglas Carter, treasurer.

Mrs. Tucker was presented with a bowl filled with fruit by Mrs. Low as an expression of the membership's appreciation for the splendid leadership Mrs. Tucker has given the club during her two terms as president.

The luncheon was a festive occasion brightened by the kick-off speech in the congressional campaign of Timothy O'Reilly.

Birthday for Joy Fehring

Tuesday — warm, sunny and beautiful — was obviously a salubrious occasion for somebody's birthday to happen on, and Joy Fehring was the lucky girl. Joy, who was ten, celebrated by inviting several of her classmates from the fifth grade at Sunset to a dinner party at her home.

Joy's mother, Mrs. Ted Fehring, was responsible for the birthday decorations, including the table centerpiece, a tinfoil tree blossoming with tiny hearts, each of which contained directions for a stunt to be executed by the guest who plucked it. Also assisting in the party arrangements was Joy's maternal grandmother, Mrs. A. R. Maule, who is down from her home in Everett, Washington, for a few weeks' visit with the Fehring.

The birthday guests were Julie and Sally Campbell, Diane Shields, Shirley Glod, Penny Nielsen, Carol Wise, Lois Patnude, Mary Martin, Marjorie Lloyd and Janice Way.

Julian Whittlesey Visits

New York architect Julian Whittlesey left Monday for Vancouver, B.C., following a week's visit here with his mother, Mrs. Granville Whittlesey, and his brother and sister-in-law, the Eben Whittleseys.

Mr. Whittlesey, who maintains his home and his extensive architectural practice in the east, is currently engaged in supervising the planning and construction of a complete new city, literally from the ground up, in connection with the industrial development at Kitimat in northwestern British Columbia.

In the course of his stay here Whittlesey spent a half-day in conference with Monterey planning authorities and the Junior Chamber of Commerce discussing the proposed development of a children's playground for El Estero Park. An outstanding innovator in the field of playground and recreational facilities, Whittlesey has achieved national recognition for a playground project in the east on which he collaborated with sculptor Isamu Noguchi. Most playgrounds, Whittlesey believes, suffer from the over-literality of adult thinking. His concept involves the effective planning and arrangement of equipment designed to stimulate the inherent imagination and creative talents in children.

Interest in the El Estero project has also been expressed by cartoonist Hank Ketcham and invent-

as I remember we were not nearly so honest, so frank, so realistic as the modern breed. Nor did we have such high ideals and so much initiative.

After graduating from the juvenile class I became a school-teacher and spent about twenty-five years in that profession. So I think I am qualified to judge the younger modern generation. To those that think that the kids are sending the world to the dogs how about keeping in mind that for every "hot-rod" and youthful criminal, there are thousands of teen-agers who are dedicated to the advancement of moral and spiritual ideals, constructive thinking and to the safety and security of their country. The trouble is that you don't hear much about this kind of youth. If I had anything to do with making the laws I'd recommend the following: Everything that appears in print or on television or on the air giving publicity to some youthful crime should have an equal amount of space or time allotted to a story of some individual or group of teen-agers who are organizing projects for their and the world's betterment and another equal amount of space or time given over to an account of an adult who breaks the laws and sets an example of cheating, of dishonesty and of drunken driving. Such a plan would give the kids a break.

HI CHATTER

By Susan Nutter

Those vicious pieces of paper called report cards have been distributed and collected. The Girls League had their elections, and the new officers are the following: president, Jeanne Fratessa; vice-president, Judy Rigsby; secretary, Linda Malis; treasurer, Sarah McCloud.

Have you noticed in the latest House Beautiful the pictorial write-up on last year's Latin Banquet by Mrs. Virginia Stanton? The banquet is an annual activity done in Roman style.

This week we had class elections and the senior results are as follows: president, Allen Knight; or-sculptor Alex Weygers of Carmel Valley, who joined Whittlesey in discussion with the Monterey Jaycees. If their informal proposals are carried through, they may ultimately involve the participation of several local designers and artists, and result in a pioneer development in contemporary playground layout.

Teacher's Experience in Talk

Mrs. Louis V. Manning will talk on the personal problems of a rural schoolteacher as illustrated in her own experience at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Town House. Foundation members who heard a similar talk some months ago by Ann Cattell, author of Sixty Miles North, will be interested in comparing the viewpoints of the two.

The showing of Dr. Remsen Bird's caricatures ends tomorrow, and on Monday a new show will open, consisting of portraits, landscapes and animal sketches by Celia Seymour Kent and Marjorie Wintermute Schiffeler, which will hang through the month.

vice-president, Francis Schutz; secretary, Christine Conley; treasurer, Eric Scarlett; boys' student council representative, George Hunter; girls' student council representative, Susan Nutter; rally council representatives, Pat Finley and Howard Roloff; girls' league representatives, Carol Shields and Luan Meatheringham.

Hurrah, the swimming hole was filled to the brim Wednesday, and what a relief it was. It added great competition to the beach, much to the joy of the truant officer.

To add a touch of interest, the senior girls spent Tuesday afternoon in a certain ice cream parlor, gasping and gaping (as casually as possible) at the gorgeous specimen of homo sapiens, the actor Peter Lawford.
